

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

SIVIA BUSINESS & LEGAL SERVICES P.C.

This month's spotlight is illuminating on Sivia Business & Legal Services, P.C. (SBLS)

SBLS is a fairly new business to our village with local ties and are active in our community. Owner Todd Sivia's great-grandfather, Harold Bott, is a former mayor of Brighton and several of the staff members, Jennifer Haynes, Rachel Cox and Mandy Darr are graduates of Southwestern High School.

SBLS is a sponsor for the Southwestern High School Christmas Tournament Program and the St. Alphonsus Catholic Church bulletin. The employees volunteer at the Brighton Food Pantry and decorated and donated a wreath for the Parks' Committee Quarter and Wreath auction this past year. They are also a member of the Southwestern Chamber of Commerce and involved with The Legacy Collaboration, African Vision of Hope and Edwardsville Rotary.

In business for 8 years, they purchased the law practice of Mary Albert-Fritz in the latter part of 2013 and proceeded to open an office at 912 North Main Street in Brighton. They employ a staff of 10 which includes attorney's, Todd Sivia, Managing Partner, Jack Humes, Jr, Ashley S. Day, Paul A. Marks, Jordan Koerner, and Alex Curcuru; Paralegals, Jennifer Haynes who is also the Office Manager, Katelyn Overton, Rachel Cox and Marketing Director, Mandy Darr.

Sivia Business & Legal Services hold memberships with the Macoupin County, Jersey County and Madison County Bar Associations as well as the Million Dollar Advocates Forum. They were named a "Top 20 Business in St. Louis" by the St. Louis Small Business Monthly and Todd Sivia was named to the 2015 Super Lawyers in Illinois list.

Visit their website at www.sivialaw.com for more information or give them a call at 618-372-4111 or 618-659-4499 if you need services in family law, estate planning, special needs planning, litigation, business law, employment law, mediation, real estate law or personal injury. The Brighton office is open Monday thru Friday.

The Brighton Economic Development Committee is proud to have such a great business in Brighton and appreciates the dedication of the business and the employees to our Village.
